CHIP SCHOLZ

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Through services including CEO and executive coaching, leadership development, strategic planning and hiring, individual assessments, and educational event facilitation, Scholz makes businesses stronger. He respects clients' expertise and brings a utilitarian work ethic to every engagement, refusing to meddle in production or get lost in political or spiritual weeds.

"I work with executives on a strategic level," Scholz says. "I don't really care how you make the widget. I care that you have widgets to sell, how you sell them, and how you go to market."

PROFILE

"I've always been fascinated by how people see their own situations—and how they can get it so wrong," Chip Scholz says, perplexed but without a hint of condemnation.

Scholz helps executives across the country see clearly through proven exercises, tough questions, and honest conversations.

Almost two decades ago, Scholz founded his executive coaching practice Scholz and Associates, Inc. in Charlotte, North Carolina. His approach is rooted in understanding human behavior and pragmatically applying what he knows.

Privately owned multi-million and billion dollar third-party logistics, transportation, solid waste, real estate, insurance, travel, and manufacturing companies make up his current and past client roster. He has also worked with many non-profits and state and local governments.
